

Optimizing investments for arsenic mitigation

An isotope study in Chapai Nawabganj, Bangladesh, showed that:

- The shallow eastern aquifer is a long term source of arsenic safe water, eliminating the need for costly water treatment facilities.

- Early use of isotopes can significantly reduce investigation costs, thus avoiding unnecessary drilling.

